Now

With F.M.L.

This community now understands a little bit more about great music and perhaps why some of us, the relative few of us find the classics stirring and even inspiring.

Dallas Symphony people said the other night at a reception that Cameron was the smallest community in which they ever played, except one scheduled where there is a junior college.

Since we have no junior college and not even a high school auditorium, it is to the great credit of this area that Cameron, indeed, would bring this thing off.

The 100 percent co-operation going into the "Symphony Day" brought, as far as we can tell, 100 percent or almost 100 percent approval of the results.

One cannot describe the deep satisfaction in seeing acceptance of what many scoff at as "class". One cannot describe the sheer delight of seeing an idea grow in people, not just in numbers or money raised, but in absorbing a level of quality that changes towns and resolves differences and helps everybody grow a little bit.

If this kind of music is not a universal language, there is no universal language, which we must have.

NOW-NOW-NOW

A larger Junior Livestock Show Saturday points up the need for a facility in this area for such annual events. What ever happened to plans for building a large arena useful for many such occasions?

Bank Announces Exec Promotions

The board of directors of the Citizens National Bank met January 11 and have announced these promotions:

Ladis Marek Jr. was promoted from cashier and auditor to assistant vice president and auditor.

Ernest Moore was promoted from assistant cashier and assistant trust officer to assistant vice president and assistant trust officer.

Charles Hundle was promoted from assistant cashier to cashier; James Hudson was promoted to assistant cashier, and Harold Moore promoted to assistant cashier.

SHOW TROPHIES for Saturday's Milam County Junior Livestock Show are displayed by Danny Phillips, left, assistant county agent, and Ed Laywell, chairman of the show. FFA members and 4-H Clubbers gathered Saturday for the 26th annual event.

Drug Charges Lead District Court Cases

Eighty-five criminal cases were disposed of by the County Attorney in the District Court of Milam County during calendar year 1971, according to County Atty. John B. Henderson Jr.

As of January 1, 1972, 39 cases were pending on the criminal docket of the District Court. The Grand Jury normally meets three times a year and returns approximately 12 to 15 felony indictments each time. The next session of the Grand Jury will probably be held in March.

For the first time ever, narcotics cases headed the list of those disposed of in District Court. A total of 22 possession of marijuana cases were handled. Most of these resulted in a term of probation for young first offenders.

Also, a total of 21 burglary cases were disposed of by the County Attorney's office.

The remaining 42 cases were fairly equally distributed. The classificiation on them is as follows: theft, seven cases; theft by bailee, two cases; swindle with worthless check, three cases; murder with malice, one case; cattle theft, six cases; removal of mortgaged property out of county, three cases; receiving and concealing stolen property, five cases; bigamy one case; fondling, one case; embezzlement, two cases; robbery, four cases; forgery and passing, three cases and one case of operating a motor vehicle without owner's consent.

COUNTY COURT

In the County Court of Milam County, a total of 256 cases were disposed of by the County Attorney during 1971. More than half of these were DWI cases.

A total of 153 DWI cases were disposed of as follows: 91 persons were convicted of DWI and received a probated sentence, thus making it possible for them to retain their driver's license; 51 persons were convicted of this offense without probation; five cases were dismissed for various reasons and six were transferred to Justice Court and handled as simple drunk cases for insufficient evidence or some other good reason.

The minimum fine which the County Judge normally assesses in a DWI case in this county is $150 and the court costs are $47. This is true in all DWI cases where the probation is granted or not.

A large number of "hot check" cases were disposed of last year. A total of 40 cases charging the defendant with swindling with worthless check were handled by the county attorney's office.

The next most popular type of case was non-support where 18 were handled.

The remainder are as follows: carrying a pistol, five cases; aggravated assualt on female, one case; serious threat to take life, three cases; defrauding innkeeper, two cases; appeal of speeding conviction in Justice Court, three cases; possession of dangerous drugs, one case; theft, one case; driving while license suspended, seven cases;

False statement to Texas Employment Commission, one case; aggravated assault with motor vehicle, one case; joyriding, one case; profane language over telephone, one case; destruction of private property, four cases, concealing mortgaged property, one case and passing without safety (appeal) one case.

Revision Due For Trailer Brakes Law

AUSTIN

State Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale today urged all owners of trailers to wait until the special session of the legislature is over before installing any type of brake on any trailer. Kubiak referred to the new Brake Law that went into effect Jan. 1, 1972.

The principal change in the law, which Rep. Kubiak opposed, requires brakes acting on all wheels for trailers weighing more than three thousand pounds. This includes the weight of the contents. The law further requires brakes for trailers weighing less than three thousand pounds when gross weight of the trailer plus contents is 40 percent or more of the gross weight of the towing vehicle. For instance, if a truck weighs 4,000 pounds, the heaviest loaded trailer that could be pulled would have a gross weight of 1,600 pounds.

"This was passed under Senate Bill 183, the Rules of the Road legislation," stated Rep. Kubiak. "We are asking all owners of farm trailers to withhold installation of brakes until we get his law repealed in the special session. I have conferred with Col. Wilson Speir, Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, and the department will not issue violation tickets on trailers."

"Gov. Preston Smith has assured us that he will open the call to repeal this brake law requirement. I have 87 members of the House who have agreed to vote to repeal this law. Seventeen Senators have indicated they will vote for the removal of the brake requirement for trailers," Kubiak stated.

The House sponsor of Senate Bill 183, Frank Calhoun of Abilene, has agreed that it was not the intent of the legislation to change the law on brakes for trailers used on farms. He further stated that there was no change intended for horse trailers, small trailers and boat trailers.

"Since it was not the intent to carry this out, Col. Wilson Speir has agreed to waive these requirements until the special session considers this sometime this spring," Kubiak remarked. "Any farm trailer grossing less than 10,000 pounds which travels 30 miles per hour or less is already exempt."

MOD Directors Approve Funds For New Hospital

The directors of the Milam County March of Dimes chapter met and designated and approved giving $1,000 for birth defect equipment for the new Rockdale hospital which will be built.

Directors also approved giving $300 to each of the five birth defect centers in Texas -- Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, Dallas, and Amarillo.

During the past 15 months the MOD chapter has given $150 to 22 different birth defect and polio afflicted children in the county.

James Hudson, chairman of the MOD drive, said the tentative date of January 31 has been set for the Mothers March.

Candidates File For City Posts

Three candidates have filed for the Cameron city election, scheduled for Tuesday, April 4.

Lester Turner filed for re-election as councilman, Place 1 and James H. Kahler owner of Kahler Nursery for councilman, Place 2, the office now held by Monro Fuchs.

Gene Blake, local Coca Cola Bottling Co. plant owner, previously filed for the post of Mayor following an announcement by Mayor E. A. Perrin that he would not seek re-election.

Filing deadline at City Hall is March 3.

Donors Sought To Meet Quota, Replace Blood

At least 110 prospective donors are needed for Wednesday's Red Cross Bloodmobile visit to make Cameron's 71-unit quota and for replacement blood for a local resident's mother.

Replacement units are being sought for Mrs. Mareta Bearce, mother of Mrs. Diane Chamberlain of Cameron. Mrs. Bearce had major surgery in Houston in November, and 20 pints of blood were used for her.

The Red Cross will replace the blood if enough donors give replacement blood. The Houston hospital asked that the blood be replaced rather than the patient pay for it, due to the shortage of blood.

The bloodmobile will be in Cameron Wednesday, January 19 from 12 noon until 6 p.m. Local blood officials expressed concern about getting enough donors, since so many people are sick with the flu.

Anyone who is able to donate blood is urged to come to Methodist Fellowship Hall Wednesday and give a pint. The process is painless and takes about an hour, counting time for a short physical exam, donating the blood, and the rest period afterward.

H. N. (Spud) Caywood has filed for constable of Pct. 4 (Rockdale), Herman Dorner Jr. for constable of Pct. 7 (Burlington and Ben Arnold) and T. L. Paris for constable of Pct. 8 (Thorndale).

Univex Cancels Building Plans

BRYAN

The economic climate of the nation has been blamed for cancellation of the Univex Looseleaf Inc. plant's completion at the Brazos County Industrial Park and has ended in the Bryan Alenco facilities finding a new home for one of the firm's divisions. The property for Univex was bought by Mar-Cal Inc. and the corporation is in turn selling the building and half of the acreage to Alenco.

West Germans Try For Treaty

By George Wine
Reuter Correspondent

BONN

East and West Germany will open a major round of negotiations on Jan. 20 in an attempt to remove some of the barriers holding nearly 80 million people apart.

After a quarter of a century of total partition and cold war hostility, moves initiated by West Germany Chancellor Willy Brandt to come to terms with his communist neighbor are gathering momentum.

Two agreements securing unhindered access to Berlin and more freedom of movement for the West Berlin population were signed and sealed in the last weeks of 1971.

Now Brandt's chief negotiator, State Secretary Egon Bahr, is moving on to a general traffic treaty with the East Germans. It is intended to open up more crossing points in the 840 mile frontier of minefields which runs from the Baltic to Czechoslovakia.

Bonn government circles are confident that a third agreement will be satisfactorily concluded, possibly by March or at the latest by April, in time for the ratification of Brandt's two master treaties with Moscow and Warsaw, which are due to come before the Bundestag (lower house) in May.

Much of the preliminary work on the inter-German traffic treaty has already been accomplished in the course of 12 previous months negotiations on the Berlin transit agreement.

In essence it is a purely technical treaty such as might be concluded between any two neighboring states to regulate the passage of goods and travellers across their common frontier. But, as the German proverb says, "The devil hides in the detail."

East Germany, jealous of its statehood and determined to underline its claim to be a fully independent nation, insists that the treaty must be exactly the same in international law, as, say, that existing between West Germany and France.

Bonn is prepared to negotiate a treaty having the full force of international law but wants it to be a specifically inter-German one. This would underline Bonn's thesis that, though, unavoidably, there are two German states there is only one German nation.

It is more than a semantic squabble. Underlying it is the principle of keeping open the option of reunifying Germany one day through self-determination by the whole German people.

West Germany's aim is to facilitate communications by making travel to East Germany quicker, simpler and safer and the transport of goods in both directions easier.

At present, the border can only be crossed by road at six points, by rail at eight points and by canal or river at two.

For Building New Schools...

Now we are getting somewhere.

Architect advisor to Cameron Schools has developed a proposal which makes much sense and supports changes in the physical plant long overdue.

Primary among D. D. Mathews' proposal is construction of a new auditorium-cafeteria, a new gymnasium-field house and what would probably be a new junior high or immediate school building.

The plaster falls rather easily at Ada Henderson. So the finding there is based on need. The present gym is not adequate for a lot of reasons and an auditorium is a must in view of the c'tural potential of this area fo'lowing a success of co'side'able proportion with the Dallas Symphony Tuesday.

Cafeteria space is not adequate even if a lunch program is reduced. Cameron schools are going to have more students, not less.

Classes are running up to 160 per class and graduating up to 120, compared to averages of about 120 to classes of about 90 graduating just a few years ago.

The problem of a recent Federal Court ruling on Texas school financing has things in the air for the moment, but it will be resolved forthwith, since everyone realizes bonded indebtedness and classroom needs of public schools cannot be left in limbo.

In a sense, the building needs of Cameron Schools have been in limbo since Ben Milam and Cameron Junior High (O. J. Thomas) were built in the mid-50s.

We are aware, now, that new construction is a necessity to numerous of the problems in the Cameron Schools. It is no final solution to public education changes, of course, but the plans proposed by the Bryan architect are well within the grasp of a community undergoing modern development.

Industrial Development Continues, Texas Total Up

AUSTIN

Preliminary figures indicate 1971 will be the second best year for Texas industrial development in recent history despite a tight national economy.

Figures available for the first 11 months of 1971 show that 338 new industries were located in Texas, compared with 296 for the same period last year.

"We are very pleased with these 11 - month figures," Chester Wine of Corpus Christi, chairman of the Texas Industrial Commission, said in revealing the year - end report. "This makes 1971 second only to the record - breaking 1969 total which earned the state the honors of being number one nationally in industrial growth."

Wine said that although the figures are very good on new plant locations, expansions of existing industries were down. The 11-month totals for expansions were 225, compared with 335 for the previous year.

Jim Harwell, Commission executive director, credits a grass-roots development program coupled with Texas' natural attractiveness in making the state an industrial power.

"First, we concentrate on developing resourceful and progressive localities," he said. "Then an extensive advertising campaign concentrates on the state's ability to support nearly any type of industry."

Since 1960, the double-edged program has matured into a well-balanced system of international proportion, and in 1969 Texas became the national leader in industrial expansion, leading second-place California by a phenomenal 42 percent.

The state has since netted several important awards for its expansion efforts, including the coveted Presidential "E" award for export development.

The scope of the Commission stretches from revitalizing programs for small communities to a national advertising campaign, with a computerized site-location service and expanded rural and export development projects among the most recent innovations.

CARAT MEASURE

The work "carat" meant the weight of a carob tree seed, used long ago to weigh diamonds, National Geographic says. The metric carat, equal to 1/142 of an ounce, now is in general use.

Q - Will the part B Medicare premium be increased in January 1972?

A - No. The Medical Insurance premium will remain at $5.60 per month until July 1972 when it will be increased to $5.80 per month.

Q - My mother is age 68 and has been hospitalized for 10 days. She has both hospital and medical insurance under Medicare. She may have to go to an extended care facility when she leaves the hospital. If so, what will Medicare pay?

A - If she is eligible, Medicare will pay all extended care facility costs for the first 20 days and all but $7.50 per day for the next 80 days; effective 1/1/72, this will be increased to $8.50 per day.

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about wages and prices.

Q - Does the Internal Revenue Service have any publications available explaining the Economic Stabilization Program?

A - Answers to many basic questions about Phase II will be found in Publication No. S-2, "General Information -- Economic Stabilization Program," available free from IRS district offices throughout the country.

This eight-page booklet has been printed and stocked in limited quantity because early revision of the publication will be made necessary by the issuance of new stabilization regulations. Once the new regulations are published, the IRS will prepare a revised booklet and make it available to the public.

Q - Are non-depreciable capital improvements of a business "allowable costs?"

A - No. Capital investment which is not subject to depreciation is generally not a cost of doing business under generally accepted accounting principles and thus would not be an "allowable cost."

Q - What reason should be given to support a requested exception from Price Commission guidelines and in what form should the request be submitted?

A - The request should contain sufficient information to establish to the satisfaction of the Price Commission that the application of a regulation from which an exception is being sought would result in a serious hardship or gross inequity to the person.

The request should state the person's name and address, the proposed price increase, the section of the regulations from which an exception is requested, and the manner in which that section affects the proposed price increase. The person should specify the extent to which the regulation should not apply to the increase.

No exception will be granted in any case unless the person establishes to the satisfaction of the Price Commission that the exception is not part of a plan which has as one of its principal purposes the avoidance of the purposes of the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970 and the Price Regulations.

The request should be submitted in writing to the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which the person has his residence or principal place of business.

Q - Are the wages and salaries of Federal employees controlled under the Economic Stabilization Program?

A - No. Federal government employee's pay adjustments are based upon Federal law and regulations; thus, they will be subject to comparable controls. This includes employees of the judicial, legislative and executive branches of the government.

VORACIOUS OCTOPUS

Eclectic Look In Decorating

COLLEGE STATION

Interior decorators probably groan with despair when a consumer decides to do her own decorating.

But that's just what many buyers are doing today, according to Pat Bradshaw, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University.

"Doing your own decorating offers an opportunity to express your unique tastes and individuality," Miss Bradshaw said. "One of the newest and most popular decorating trends favors the eclectic, or mixed, approach."

Rather than looking for pieces that match or date from the same historical period, the eclectic enthusiast simply chooses furniture pieces that she likes, regardless of style.

"Mixing furniture styles and accessories can be exciting and satisfying," Miss Bradshaw claimed. "You may mix natural materials with new, man-made products; combine wood-toned furniture with painted, colored finishes; and antiques with modern pieces. Well - designed pieces of any era blend well.

"Modern furniture takes on a special excitement when you add a Chippendale sofa for contrast," she said.

"When you begin choosing home furnishings for an eclectic look, first decide what appeals to you and then collect it. Your own personal taste will unify the design elements. When you pick items you like, you'll find that they share certain similarities."

According to the specialist, collections should be placed with regard to their decorative value and shown in arrangements that agree with a room's design and mood.

"No room should look like a museum. Table cabinets and built-in or free - standing cabinets may shelve rarities and walls may display certain types of collector's items. But don't over-do by using too many accessories."

A room's most important feature is unity within the living space. To achieve unity, a room needs continuity or harmony, Miss Bradxhaw said. An easy way to accomplish unity is to use a single color or different values and intensities of the same color in a room.

"Another way is to use repetition of certain elements," she said. "For example, use the same type of wood in different furniture pieces.

"If you do your job carefully, your furniture will blend well together and offer you a living environment that features your own personnality."

Caramel Apples Dress For Dinner

The Caramel Apple—a longtime favorite confection of the young and young at heart—has been crowned with a delicious cheesy crust, a whipped cream topping, and has emerged as a new dessert treat, the Caramel Apple Dumpling. It is a versatile dessert — as pleasing to your family in the most mundane dish as to your friends, served on a silver platter. The Caramel Apple Dumpling has all of the virtues of the Caramel Apple and the Apple Dumpling, but is more unusual than either of these choice American desserts. It combines a variety of textures—the juicy baked apple, a flaky pastry crust and creamy caramel to delight the palate of the most experienced dessert connoisseur. The flavor of the Caramel Apple Dumpling is unique as well. Caramel rather than sugar provides the sweetness, and the crust is enhanced through the use of Natural Sharp Cheddar Cheese. Hearty food, yet sophisticated in appearance, the Caramel Apple Dumpling is a combination of interesting contrasts and unforgettable eating pleasure — compliments of The Kraft Kitchens.

Caramel Apple Dumplings

- 2 cups flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup Parkay Margarine
- 1½ cups (6 ozs.) shredded Cracker Barrel Brand Natural Sharp Cheddar Cheese
- 4 to 6 tablespoons water
- 28 Kraft Caramels
- ¼ cup water
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- 6 medium baking apples, peeled, cored
- ½ cup heavy cream, whipped
- 6 maraschino cherries

Combine flour and salt. Cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs; stir in cheese. Sprinkle with water while mixing lightly with a fork; form in ball. Divide into three equal portions. Roll out each on lightly floured surface to 14 x 7-inch rectangle; cut into two 7-inch squares.

Melt caramels with water in double boiler or saucepan over low heat; stir until sauce is smooth. Add nuts. Place apple on each pastry square. Fill each center with one tablespoon caramel sauce. Fold pastry corners to centers; pinch together. Bake at 425°, 30 to 35 minutes. Top with remaining caramel sauce, whipped cream and cherries. Makes 6 servings.

Forum Discusses Womens Responsibility

"Continuing Responsibilities of Women" was the subject of the program for Beta Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, January 8, at the Texas Restaurant in Cameron. Cameron members were hostesses for the 8:30 a.m. breakfast.

Mrs. Peggy Clark, chairman of the Personal Growth and Services Committee, was leader for the open forum on "Keeping Trusts." Speakers were members of her committee, Mrsdames Hazel Plasek, Kathryn Piper, Fairie Kahler, and Dorothy Marley.

Mrs. Plasek emphasized the vast scope and tremendous depth of feminine abilities in her discussion of the "Feminine Mystique." Mrs. Piper, in her talk on "Intellectual Capacities," pointed to the change in woman's concept of herself since 1904, "Women today no longer wait for the children to grow up before beginning their own careers." She stated that women are equal but different from men, which fact proves that women should also occupy positions of leadership in every field of endeavor. To prove this, she cited women already successful in many fields formerly open only to men.

Mrs Kahler spoke on "Emotional Maturity." She emphasized the responsibilities of women teachers to the pupil, the parents, and the public, and read a poem showing the influence of women teachers. Mrs. Marley's subject was "Spiritual and Moral Growth." She related the changes in modern life from that of the early settlers, and urged women to face up to the challenges presented by what many times seem to indicate a worsening of moral and spiritual values in the nation. Teachers should be good models for their pupils, for children would "rather see than hear a sermon". "Long ago," Mrs. Marley said, "Augustine said, 'Live nobly and you will change the times,' which is true today as well as yesterday."

Mrs. Clark closed the program with a prayer, and Mrs. Nadine Zelisko led the group in singing the Delta Kappa Gamma song.

After the program, Mrs. Geneva Hughes, president, held a short business meeting, during which Mrs. Nadine Zelisko, chairman of the Committee on Scholarships, reported that March 1 is the deadline for applying for a scholarship.

The next meeting of the chapter will be a brunch at Houston's Cafe in Marlin, February 5, at 9:30 a.m. Reservations should be turned in by February 2.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

Have you ever purchased on the time installment plan? Sure you have. Practically all major appliances are purchased in this manner.

Here's how it works: You, as the consumer, purchase a washer and dryer from one of the local appliance dealers in your city. You sign a time installment contract and promissory note for the total purchase price, payable in monthly installments ranging from 12 to 36 months.

(It should be noted that the time installment plan is utilized in the purchase of furniture, dance lessons, etc. as well as appliances.)

Your promissory note for the total price of the washer and dryer is in turn assigned or transferred by the appliance dealer to a bank or other lending institution. By the terms of this assignment or transfer, the appliance dealer who sold you the washer and dryer is paid in full by the bank and you now begin to make regular payments to the bank for the purchase of your appliances. The bank, who owns your promissory note now, is probably a "Holder In Due Course."

So what does this mean to you, a consumer? Legally speaking, it means a great deal in terms of the rights and liabilities of all three parties -- you, the appliance dealer, and the financial institution -- to this everyday commercial transaction.

What exactly is a "Holder In Due Course"? Generally, a "Holder In Due Course" is one who takes a negotiable promissory note in the regular course of business, paying a valuable consideration for it, and who has no reason to believe that the original transaction between you and the appliance dealer is other than legitimate. As a "Holder In Due Course", the bank is legally entitled to expect payment to be made by you according to the terms of your note. All well and good so far!

But, consider this situation: As you begin to use your new appliances, suppose the dryer ceases to function due to faulty installation by the appliance dealer. If the dealer is a reputable one, he will repair it or see that it is installed properly pursuant to your warranty. But suppose that the appliance dealer has in the meantime quit doing business or has moved from your city and cannot be located. What do you do now? Can you legally cease making payments until your dryer is repaired or replaced? If the bank is a "Holder In Due Course,", the answer is no.

Remember, the bank paid valuable consideration for your note. It paid the dealer cash in full. It makes a profit from the interest you are paying on the note, and the bank more than likely would have had no reason to believe the dealer was other than reputable. (Or at least it will be extremely difficult for you to prove otherwise.)

Where does this leave you legally? This leaves you with monthly installments to pay on your note stuck with a faulty appliance with a questionable appliance dealer unavailable.

Before signing the contract and making your purchase, know with whom you are dealing. Is he a reputable and honest businessman? If you are not sure, check with your local Chamber of Commerce or Better Business Bureau.

Remember, when purchasing products or services on the time installment payment plan, your contract and note in many cases will be assigned to a "Holder In Due Course."

Bonus Of Storage In Living Rooms

While no one questions the need for cupboards in a kitchen or closets in a bedroom, many persons completely overlook the advantages of adding attractive storage in the living room.

A fireplace wall is a natural for multi-purpose, flush cabinets with hidden hardware, to hold firewood, games or hobby equipment, television set and record changer.

Book shelves of handsome western woods such as pine, fir or hemlock can be built into corners or surrounding windows, adding both interest and utility.

Consumer Price Index Rose Just 0.2 In November

WASHINGTON

The Consumer Price Index rose 0.2 in November, the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

Most of the increase was due to higher property taxes and higher prices for fresh vegetables, homes, and some women's clothing, the effects of which were moderated by lower prices for used cars and gasoline. The November index was 122.6 (1967 - 100), 3.5 percent above a year ago.

The November CPI reflects the refund required by the Revenue Act of 1971 of excise tax on new cars purchased by consumers in November. Since the refund is retroactive to August 15, 1971, indexes for August, September, and October have been recalculated.

The recomputation reduces previously published indexes to the levels at which they would have been if the tax had not been paid at the time of purchase and alters some percentage changes previously reported.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the increase in the November, index was 0.2 percent. During the August-November period, which corresponds roughly to the period covered by Phase I of the Economic Stabilization Program, the CPI increased at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.7 percent, the smallest rise for a 3-month period since January-April of 1967.

The August-November change compares with a 4.1 annual rate of advance during the 6 months ending in August. All three major components of the index -- food, commodities other than food, and services -- contributed to the slowdown. In November, the food price index rose 0.7 percent after seasonal adjustment, following no change in October and a decline in September.

High scorer for Rosebud-Lott was B. Whitfield with 8, followed by M. Bailey with 6, B. Michaelwicz with 4 and K. Ryan with 3.

The seventh grade was not so lucky, being defeated 34-25 by Rosebud-Lott seventh grade.

I rechecked my computations and the tax tables and then wrote the Internal Revenue Center with the said couple getting a copy, stating that "either your punch card operator punched a seven for seven exemptions instead of an eight for eight exemptions or your computer has a compiler error. Ag Yearbook Emphasizes Housing, Community Aids

Realestate brokers, home builders, and material suppliers interested in developing the rural market will find USDA's new yearbook --"A Good Life for More People" -- a comprehensive and up to date source of practical information.

The annual publication was presented to the public, Members of Congress and the press December 7 by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz. The event was cosponsored by: National Lumber and Building Material Dealers Association; The American Plywood Association; National Forest Products Association; and the National Association of Home Builders.

The Washington Evening Star said the 416 page book was "almost a textbook in rural sociaology, concentrating on housing, education, and community services, with feature articles on people who have taken advantage of various programs overseen by the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

Of special interest to firms and organizations doing business in rural areas are chapters dealing with rural population trends, area planning, growth potential, plus numberous chapters devoted specifically to the various housing and community service programs offered by USDA and which can be used to good advantage by private enterprise.

Considerable space in the Yearbook is devoted to the Farmers Home Administration's rural housing loan programs which have created a rapidly expanding rural housing market in the past three years.

HOUSING HIGHLIGHTS

The Yearbook reveals these special highlights on the housing loan program:

--FHA's housing program has tripled in size since 1969. In fiscal year 1972, the agency will finance more than 115,000 rural housing units with loans of $1.6 billion.

--the agency can now make loans in rural communities up to 10,000 population. Previous to January 1971, loans were confined to towns of less than 5,500 population.

--Conditional commitments can be made with home builders to build homes with reasonable assurance that they can be financed with FHA loans to eligible individual borrowers.

--Farmers Home offers a "packaging concept" program under which responsible organizations and associations can help in processing housing loans.

--Interest credit loans are now available to low income rural families.

--A broadened rental housing program has been inaugurated and is proving extremely popular in smaller towns.

--Grants up to 90 percent of the project's total cost are available for construction of housing for farm laborers.

--Short term homesite and subdivision development loans are available to nonprofit organizations to encourage development of good building sites in rural areas with modern water and sewer facilities and pleasant environment.

--Comprehensive area planning grants are available for the orderly and efficient development of community facilities.

--Farmers Home Administration offers the services of trained construction specialists, architects and engineers and, along with other USDA agencies, has developed housing designs suitable for various parts of the country.

--Housing and community loans are now financed through the sale of insured notes to investors rather than by appropriated funds. Investors include labor unions, retirement pension funds and other trust funds, and private lender institutions.

The Yearbook contains chapters telling how Farmers Home Administration works not only with small home builders but also with large industrial firms to build whole new rural towns so that their employees have decent, modern housing.

Farmers Home Administration's big surge as a dominant force in rural houing in recent years is the result of putting the program on an insured loan basis, rather than depending on direct appropriations each year from Congress. The agency sells its insured note paper to local banks and investors but a large share is sold through big national underwriters in big blocks.

The Yearbook -- "A Good Life for More People" -- published December 8, 1971, can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. 20402, for $3.50 per copy.

Extended Unemployment Benefits Now Effective

U.S. Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson has notified the Texas Employment Commission that the national trigger for extended unemployment benefits will be in effect beginning January 2, 1972.

The first date on which a claim for extended benefits can be filed in Texas is January 10 and claims filed through January 21 may be backdated to January 10. Claims filed after January 21 will not be backdated.

"The extended benefits become payable to individuals as a result of amendments to state and federal law and are payable only to claimants who have exhausted their regular benefits," says R. L. Coffman, TEC Administrator.

A claimant for extended benefits may receive as much as 50 per cent of his total regular unemployment benefits, payable at the same weekly rate as his regular benefits.

To be eligible for extended benefits, a claimant must not have entitlement to regular benefits in any state or territory; must have a benefit year that ends on or after January 2; must file for extended benefits covering weeks subsequent to January 2, 1972; and must to totally or partially unemployed.

He must also meet the conditions required to draw regular unemployment benefits, such as filing a claim, being able to and available for work, and actively seeking work.

Claimants must file with the Texas Employment Commission for extended benefits in the same manner they file for regular benefits.

The cost of extended benefits will be shared on a 50-50 basis from the state unemployment insurance trust fund and the federal government.

As required by federal law, the extended benefits program was incorporated in the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act by the 62nd Legislature.

Lt. Gov. Candidate Jones Formally Opens Campaign

Lieutenant Governor candidate Bill Jones formally opens his campaign for the Democratic nomination with dedication of his headquarters in downtown Austin at noon on Jan. 19.

Jones will deliver the first of a series of major campaign statements he will make from the street corners of Texas.

Following the formal opening, Jones will take to the highways in his mobile headquarters for a tour of more than three months that will carry him to every county in the state.

The mobile headquarters is fully equipped with a public address system for street corner speaking and the most modern electronic equipment which will enable Jones to maintain continuous contact with his central headquarters in Austin.

Jones announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor in the State Senate chamber on Dec. 3.

He reached his decision following a tour of the state during which he said he became convinced of the people's desire for a responsive, "open door" state government.

"I pledge a high- level campaign on the issues that face all Texans in these rapidly changing times. I will talk, and listen to, the people in all areas of our state," Jones said.

"We must restore the confidence of the people in their state government. We must meet the mammoth challenges posed in the fields of education and welfare, and provide a 'preparation for living' for our young people that can break the cycle of poverty. On these and other issues, I will speak out during the campaign."
